Guangzhou is the capital of Gungdong Province and one of the five national-level central cities in China as well as a communication transportation hub and traffic port of South China. In October 2014 Guangzhou was elected as the first Co-President of METROPOLIS ad well as the host city of METROPOLIS Asia Pacific Regional Office

In this framework, Secretary General Alain Le Saux also met with the Chinese People's Association for Friendship with Foreign Countries (CPAFFC). CPAFFC is a nongovernment organisation in general consultative status at UN Ecosoc, which aims at actively participating in international cooperation on behalf of Chinese local governments. During the "Top Talk on Global Cities, Friendship Cities and Urban Innovation" plenary session, held on November 28, Mayor of Guangzhou M.Chen Jianhua stressed the importance of the sister cities agreements lead by CPAFFC in fostering the tradition of friendship between Chinese and foreign cities.

In this regards both organisations confirmed their willingness to strenghten their relationship and contribute to more exchanges between METROPOLIS Chinese cities members, Chinese cities non members of METROPOLIS and the metropolises worldwide.
